Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on July 29, 2004 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 15 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by the PG-Publication to Wilson et al ('222 B2).

Wilson et al discloses a method of collecting seismic data, digitizing the data and transmitting the data in response to a signal from another receiver (see especially, col. 4, lines 10-16).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1, 9, 19, 22 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Orban et al or Fort ('472) when taken in view of Onyia et al ('559 A1).

The patents to Orban et al and Fort each has been presented and discussed in the prior office actions. With respect to the instant claims 1, 9, 19, 22 and 23, the difference between the Orban et al and Fort systems and the instant claims lies in the newly amended claim language to "surface, velocity and elevation data".

The PG-Publication to Onyia et al discloses a method for processing seismic data. Note that the system disclosed by Onyia et al teaches (paragraph 0130) that surface, velocity and elevation data are common types of seismic data detected in a normal course of seismic data collection. Thus, to have detected such data as "surface, elevation and velocity data" in the systems of Orban et al and Fort would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art.

6. Claims 2-8, 10-14, 20, 21 and 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Orban et al or Fort as applied to claims 1, 9, 19, 22 and 23 above, and further in view of the PG-Publication to Wilson et al ('222 B2).

The Wilson et al publication teaches that seismic prospecting systems include co-hosted control circuits, amplifiers and power management systems to provide for improved data collection and processing processes.

The prior office actions disclosed the limitations or deficiencies of Orban et al and Fort with respect to such processes. However, in view of Wilson et al, one of ordinary skill in the art would find it obvious to modify Orban et al or Fort to include such co-hosted control circuitry so as to improve the quality of signals detected and lower the price of the prospecting process.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 9, 15, 19 and 22-24 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
